JOINT SESSION HEARD GOVERN-OR'S SPECIAL MESSAGE

ON WAR PREPARATION

Sovernor Has Asked Power to Take a Census, Classified With a View of Their Availability for the Various Activities of War.

(Special to The Bulletin.) (Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 6.—When the substitute, chaplain, Rev. Hadley, of Bloomfield, completed his prayer, scintillating with patriotism, the speaker announced a communication from the governor, which called for a joint session of the general assembly in the hall of the house at noon. Then followed several reports of disagreeing action as to the matter of reference of bills, which were adjusted. The house concurred with matter of reference of bills, which were adjusted. The house concurred with the senate in referring to the committee on federal relations the Hemenway resolutions declaring the loyalty of the titizens of Connecticut to the president of the United States. The attendance in the house was of the ordinary Tuesday size, which means many absentees. Judge Waller Again-

Judge Waller AgainThe favorable report of the committee on the judiciary was taken from the calendar and passed confirming the nomination of Charles B. Waller to be judge of the court of commin property for New London county. Like action

GRAIN ELEVATOR AT PIER reposition Was Discussed by th Commission at the Capitol.

The members of rivers, bridges and harbors commission, of which Governor Holcomb is a member, held a session in the office of the governor, on sion in the office of the governor, on Tuesday afternoon, for the main purpose of discussing the feasibility of constructing a grain elevator on state property near the state terminal pier at New London. The session was held in connection with the bill introduced by Senator James R. May, which provides for an appropriation of $500,000 for the purgose. It was stated that the grain elevator would make the terminal pier complete for the purpose for which it is intended, and that the railroad connections would make pose for which it is intended, and that the railroad connections would make the elevator practicable as an outlet for the grain fields of the west.

It was also stated with grain as an outward cargo, the real use of the terminal for a foreign steamship route was practically assured. There was intimation that if the state was not inclined to build the grain elevator, permission might be asked from the state, by corporations, or individuals, or both, to erect the elevator as an investment. It was also intimated that while an appropriation of $500,000 was asked for in the May bill, that the grain elevator could be erected for a considerably less sum. No decided action was taken at the session, but the project will be given further consideration before definite action is taken by the general assembly.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS aring on Charter Amendment and Extension of Beneficiaries.

The committee on incorporations gave hearings, Tuesday afternoon, on an act to amend the charter of the Knights of Columbus, and on an act to extend the right of beneficiary. The first matter was to add the names of two more original members to the list of incorporators. This organization was organized in New Haven, incorporated under Connecticut laws, and became nation-wide in importance. Through error these names were omitted and the amendment is to correct this error.

insurance branch of the order, the beneficiaries being extended beyond the kin of members, so that homes, charitable and kindred institutions could be named as beneficiaries. THE LEARNED MISSION.

Other Missions Desire Discontinuano for Consolidation Purposes. Tuesday afternoon the committee on incorporations gave hearings on several matters of special interest to New London. Acts were considered, three of them, to authorize the Central Mission, its successor the Bradley Street mission, its successor the Bradley Street mission, to close up their affairs, and the incorporation of the Billings P. Learned Mission, as successor. It was explained that Mr. Learned left the bulk of his estate, about $175,000, for the founding of a mission bearing his name to be located in New London. The will provides that a new mission building be erected and it is planned to turn over the proceeds of the property of the Central, or Bradley Street Mission, to the Learned fund, for general mission purposes in the city of New London.

ACTS OF JUDGE DAN HOME Resolution of Representative Bradford for Their Validation.

Tuesday afternoon the judiciary committee gave hearing on the validating act introduced by Mr. Bradford, of Montville, to validate certain acts of Judge Dan Home, of the Montville probate court. While the specified matters were of minor importance, the act of validation is necessary to establish absolutely their legal standing.

The committee also gave hearing on the resolutions appointing S. Victor Prince and Thomas E. Troland, assistant judge of the police and city court of New London. It said the committee will make favorable report on the resolution appointing Mr. Prince. The resolution to appoint Mr. Troland was presented by Senator Barnes of Norwich, and that to appoint Mr. Prince by Representative Pearson, of East Lyme.

Release of State Land.

Release of State Land.

The judiciary committee gave hearing Tuesday on the request of the town of Bast Lyme, that the state release to the town the roadway in the village of Niantic, which runs from the spur track at the unloading point to Pennsylvania avenue. This roadway when not used by the state is closed to the public, and therefore bottles up a number of building sites. It was argued that the public use of this roadway would in ne way interfere with the business of the state. This road is used in connection with the state military camp in Niantic.

Senator Barnes presented in the senate Tuesday a petition from Addie Burns, of New London, for release from the state prison, where she is serving a fwenty years sentence.

petition states innocence of the crime for which she was convicted, and that she has suffered punishment for any offence which she may have commit-ted. The petition is signed by her at-torney, Charles W. Comstock. School Text Books.

There will be a hearing Thursday afternoon on a bill presented by Mr. Wilcox of Stonington, by request, which amends the act relative to text books in the public schools, so as to provide that the state board of education shall adopt a list of text books to be used in schools every five years.

GOV. HOLCOMB'S MESSAGE ON THREATENING WAR sources in the State that Would Likely to be Requisitioned. Hartford, Feb. 6 .- "The world is face face with the gravest crisis in modcrn history, if not in the history of all times. A world conflict of Titanic preportions is rocking civilization to its foundations, and the laws of the nations, wrought on the anvil of experience and rendered sacred by the sanctions of organized society, are being violated with reckless abandon. Hitherto it has been the official view of our government that the interest of the United States in this crisis is that of a neutral, although profoundly concerned, spectator, and we have not witnessed the immediate approach of the conflagration to our shores; but the swift march of recent events; has compelled us to view gravely the imminence of our enforced participation in the mighty conflict. It, therefore, behooves us to reflect seriously and act wisely.

Each State Must Perferm its Dutk.

Connecticut a Veritable Arsenal.

"Aside from the general considerations, I recommend that power be given to your governor to take considerations, I common to take or be given to your governor to take census, classified with a view of their availability for the various activities of war, of the men of the state which war would call into requisition. If it is sponsibility, our state has its own direct and peculiar interest in the national defense. It might almost be said that Connecticut is today the arsenal of the nation. If the naval stockade which may shortly be called upon to my fine through or destroyed by means of a numerous and powerful undersea fleet and a foreign force should reach our shores, among the first blows to fall would be one almed at the highly organized industries of this state. It would be the purpose of the invading strategist to destroy or control the munition plants of Hartford and march up the Connecticut valley to the fed-eral arsenal at Springfield.

State Has Never Fallen Short.

"In view of this situation and theze considerations, I recommend that power be given to your governor to take and closed it; and a connecticut and closed it; and a connecticut and closed it; and a connecticut war would call into requisition. If it was marchaled in from to war would call into requisition. If it is already in the time to time consult you further as the work progresses, especially if I find the paintenance of the state which was first unfuried before New small expense. Much of it is already in the south and in the battle-same very contested ridge and it was first unfuried before New small expense. Much of it is already in the south and in the battle-same very contested ridge and it was first unfuried before a connecticut sale which are all of the south and the south and the south and the sale work in Minimor to the feature of the sale work in Mi was first unfurled before New cleans. On the banks of every river the south, and in the battle-smoke confident of secured to do secured to do secured to do lonely lake and stream, in field and tangled thicket.

"I make this recommendation with confidence because of the high traditions to which your honorable bodies are the heirs. Throughout the whole history of the people of Connecticut, whether in colonial times or under the existing federal constitution, this state never has fallen short or been found wanting in the hour of danger.
